Jim Davis, CEO of DAVIS Construction, Joins Samaritan Inns' Board of Directors

WASHINGTON, DC- On October 15, 2015, Jim Davis formally joined Samaritan Inns' Board of Directors. "Samaritan Inns is a very important organization to our region and to me personally," Jim said. "I believe their continuum of care approach really works to help people overcome their addictions."

Before joining the Board, Jim Davis and DAVIS Construction joined forces with Clark Construction Group LLC last winter to host a breakfast fundraiser with their DC-area subcontractors. Davis continued to support Samaritan Inns by serving as a Co-Chair of Samaritan Inns' current capital campaign, the Campaign for Hope.

As President and CEO of James G. Davis Construction Corporation (DAVIS) since 1988, Jim oversees operations strategy, key project development, and client relationships. For over 30 years, his foresight, intelligence, and genuine passion have helped transform a small family business into a nationally ranked construction leader. He is recognized by clients and employees alike for his emphasis on effective teamwork, commitment to quality and excellence in service, and ensuring the firm-wide management practice of putting the client first. DAVIS has a genuine passion for giving back to the community, and has established long and meaningful relationships with many nonprofit organizations, education providers, small and minority businesses, and community groups.
